Duty to God is about your family's faith and how it connects to the Scout Law. You'll explore values, meet people who help others in hard times, and think about what faith means to you. It's personal, and it's yours to explore.

Requirements

Every official requirement, in plain language. Check the official wording when you sign off (scouting.org/cub-scout-adventures/duty-to-god/). Tips and examples are ideas, not extra requirements.

- ☐ 1 With a parent or legal guardian, talk about your family's faith traditions or one you choose; pick a belief or value from it that relates to the Scout Law and discuss how each family member shows it

Tip: Talk with a parent or guardian about a value from your family's faith, like kindness, and how it matches a point of the Scout Law.

Example: If your family's faith teaches caring for people in need, you might connect it to "helpful" and "kind" in the Scout Law. Then think of how your family lives that at home, like cooking for a neighbor who is sick.

- ☐ 2 Meet a representative of a local faith-based group that helps people in crisis no matter their faith; find out who they help and how

Tip: With an adult, visit a group like a food pantry or shelter run by a faith community. Ask who they help and how.

Example: Visit a food pantry or shelter run by a faith community with your adult. Ask: Who comes here for help? How do volunteers help? Why does your community do this work?

- ☐ 3 Talk with a parent, legal guardian, or adult leader about what Duty to God means to you; describe how you practice it each day

Tip: Talk with your family about what Duty to God means to you and the ways you show it.

Example: You might say: "For me, duty to God means being thankful, praying before bed, and treating people kindly even when it's hard." Your words can be short and honest.
