King of the Jungle is about being a helpful member of your family and community. You'll celebrate the people you live with, pick a family job, and help with a service project. Even small jobs make a big difference.

Requirements

Every official requirement, in plain language. Check the official wording when you sign off (scouting.org/cub-scout-adventures/king-of-the-jungle/). Tips and examples are ideas, not extra requirements.

- ☐ 1 Draw a picture or snap a photo of everyone you live with

Tip: Draw a picture of everyone in your home, including pets, or take a family photo and share it with your den.

- ☐ 2 With your adult partner, pick a job that helps your family and do it at least once

Tip: Pick a job you can really do, like feeding the pet or setting the table, and check it off on a chart.

Example: You pick setting the table. Every night this week you put out forks and napkins for each person. Your adult helps you make a chart, and you add a sticker each time you do it.

- ☐ 3 Ask a grandparent or other older adult what citizenship means to them

Tip: Call or visit a grandparent or older neighbor with your adult and ask what being a good citizen means to them.

Example: With your adult on a video call, ask Grandma, "What does being a good citizen mean to you?" She might say helping neighbors, voting, or following the rules. Draw a picture of her answer.

☐ 4 Take part in a service project

Tip: Join your den or pack in a simple project, like collecting food for a pantry or picking up litter with gloves on.

Example: Your den collects canned food for a food pantry. You help decorate the collection box, carry cans with your grown-up, and see the shelves where the food goes.
