My Family is about the traditions and beliefs that make your family special. You'll share holidays, show kindness, and learn how other faiths are similar to yours. It's a chance to grow closer to your family and understand others.

Requirements

Every official requirement, in plain language. Check the official wording when you sign off (scouting.org/cub-scout-adventures/my-family/). Tips and examples are ideas, not extra requirements.

- ☐ 1 Talk with a parent or legal guardian about your family's faith traditions; name three holidays or celebrations from them; make a craft, artwork, or food that is part of those traditions

Tip: Ask a parent or grandparent about your family's favorite holidays. Make a craft or bake a treat for one.

Example: You might help make a family recipe for a holiday, decorate a card or ornament, or draw a picture of how your family celebrates. Ask what the tradition means while you work on it.

- ☐ 2 Do an act of kindness

Tip: Do something kind without being asked, like helping a neighbor or writing a thank-you note.

Example: An act of kindness can be writing a thank-you note to a teacher, raking a neighbor's leaves with your adult, or sitting with someone who looks lonely at lunch.

- ☐ 3 With a parent or legal guardian, pick a religion or faith different from yours and find two things it shares with your family's beliefs

Tip: Visit a friend's place of worship with an adult or read a kids' book about another faith. Look for two things you share.

Example: Read a library book or talk with a friend's family about how they celebrate. You might find that you both share meals at holidays and both believe in helping people in need.

- ☐ 4 Talk with a parent or legal guardian about what being reverent means; tell how you show reverence in your daily life

Tip: Talk with your family about what being reverent means and small ways you show it each day.

Example: Being reverent can mean praying, being quiet and respectful in a place of worship, saying thank you before a meal, or being respectful when others share their beliefs. Talk with your family about what it means to you.
